

Stephanie Andrzejewski, Head of Corporate Affairs, AstraZeneca

Stephanie Andrzejewski has over 20 years experience in public relations, marketing communications, patient advocacy engagement, corporate social responsibility and people development. Known for bold thinking and pushing boundaries and buttons, she's obsessed with storytelling and content creation, stakeholder engagement and people development.

A unique duality, Stephanie has a combination of traditional public relations agency and in-house biopharmaceutical public affairs experience. She has deep experience in navigating complex organizations, creating and empowering diverse teams all while keeping business goals front and center. From launching brands (big and small) to leading significant organizational change management and everything in between, Stephanie's career has spanned from the early days of the internet and the introduction of e-commerce to specialty healthcare and the role of precision medicine.

A mom of three 'sometimes' cherubs – Grace, Luke and Harper – Stephanie strives for work-life harmony because let's be honest, balance is best left to tightrope walkers.
